

Picture "The last snow - abstract art, modern wall sculpture"
(2024)
