

Bea Schubert: Picture "Be Free Be Wild Be You" (2024)

€1,900.00

My abstract series "The show must go on" is inspired by Freddie Mercury's (Queen) song. The song came out a week before his death. He used "show" as a symbol for life, which we should enjoy and should be continued by those who are left behind. Mercury knew he was going to die. He fought to the end. This powerful work of art is a statement for life. It is painted on a white background. Framing is not required. The picture also has a varnish to protect it from UV light. 80x80x approx. 2 cm deep. Painted on the occasion of International Women's Day: "Be free be wild be you" A strong picture with an expressive message.
