

Ute Bivona: Picture "The feminine divine" (2023)

€4,500.00

Music has always been a fundamental and indispensable part of the artist's painting. A wide range of different musical genres often determine the basic mood of her works. Thus, in this case, she rediscovered the new album of the group Dexys. In her youth, the then hit "Come on Eileen" so delighted and carried her away that it was only natural that she immediately had to listen to the new album. The music and the lyrics excited and touched her so much that she kept painting for a long time and in many layers, listening to the music and being inspired until the overall composition convinced her. Thus, the title "The Feminine Divine" is one of the songs on the album AND the title of the work.
