

Ute Bivona: Picture "At the end of the odyssey" (2023)

€8,800.00

Can you relate to that? You have a clear idea of what you want to do today. You have clearly defined your goal. You start and think everything is going right, BUT after following your inner plan, it deviates more and more, leaving you dissatisfied. You try harder to achieve this vision you have in your head, but the more you try, the more you fail. The next day: after deciding to just let it go for some time, you come back and see very clearly that you're not going to get anywhere like this. You make a cut and start all over again. BUT it's as if the project has its own way and resists your thinking. So you finally let go of your first idea, let the project show you where it wants to go and - LET MAGIC GO!!!! So it went the artist with this work, a long way until finally the right and colorful overall composition enstand!
