

Karin Döring: Picture "SUNSET" (2024)

€2,500.00

In my work "SUNSET", I deliberately chose white as the dominant color because it fascinates me and gives the other colors a very special depth. White is unique because it is the result of the reflection and scattering of all visible wavelengths of light. It contains all the colors of the visible spectrum in equal proportions and symbolizes a simple clarity. The work invites you to lose yourself in the colors and discover your own interpretations and emotions. The white functions here as a connecting element that brings the different shades together and at the same time allows them to unfold individually. For me, it is a play with light and shadow, with intensity and restraint.
