Picture "Evening primrose and autumn crocus at the pond" (2022)

€2,100.00

This picture was created in September in the painter's own garden. In the foreground shine bright yellow evening primroses next to delicate purple autumn crocus. On the right side of the picture are the small pink flowers of cranesbill. The edge of the pond is lined with round, gray field stones. White clouds and blue sky are reflected in the pond, as well as the dark green foliage of trees. The oil paint is applied very impasto with palette knives. This gives the image plasticity and depth. The canvas is hand-covered four times primed and provided with a steel wire as a suspension. The edges are painted. The picture can be hung directly.
