

Michael Rofka: Sculpture "Chestnut King" (2016)

€4,000.00

The 'Chestnut King' is actually also a non-figurative wooden sculpture, just made of chestnut wood. It has an organic, dynamic shape almost like a vortex. There are vistas and penetrations and all sorts of interesting plastic aspects to discover. The wood had already been penetrated by a fungus, which makes the visual impression even more varied. The sculpture is mounted on a steel plate. However, if desired, it can also be mounted on a stone plate, for example.
