

Toni Nohe: Picture "The kiss" (2023)

In a painting called "THE KISS", a symphony of colors unfolds before our eyes. The dominant blue and red permeate the room, their intensity competes and unites at the same time with a variety of other colors. The canvas, elongated in shape, radiates a harmonious atmosphere that fills the room with positive energy. The oil painting, done mainly in coarse spatula and brush applications, gives the painting a unique texture and depth. A story seems to awaken within this abstract painting. With a little imagination, blue and red silhouettes can be seen, which seem to meet each other. The kissing silhouettes, in their abstraction, are rather an expression of the fusion and union of blue and red. This is reinforced by the artful use of palette knife and brushstrokes, which emphasize the dynamics of the encounter.
