

Michael Krähmer: Picture "Volcano V" (2009)

€4,500.00

In this oil painting the glowing lava really seems to glow. This is thanks to the old master glazing technique that the artist uses. This involves diluting oil paint with a natural resin solution and then layering it in several gossamer-thin transparent colored layers. Thus, the light reflected on the background seems to literally make the lava glow. The picture is framed with a black shadow gap frame with silver edge
