

Michael Rofka: Sculpture "In between" (2023)

€2,700.00

I started with this piece of marble to make something like a bow. The hole in the center was already there when I saw that there was a fine break on one side. Therefore, it was clear that I had to find another way for this sculpture and decided to create an open loop with a small gap. Now I am sure that the result is better than the first concept. The gap is an expression of tension between the two ends. I left the traces of the angle grinder on the surface, but polished this structure. It is therefore also nice to touch. The sculpture is mounted on a dark block of stone.
