Picture "Romy (Schneider) I - la passante entre les pôles" (2022)

Work from the series "Courage Strength Resilience - lifelines of extraordinary women". For this series of pictures, I have selected women who, from my personal point of view, have achieved extraordinary life achievements. These achievements gain particular significance when viewed in the context of the contemporary historical, social and political life situation of the respective woman. Romy Schneider was a courageous and at the same time fearful woman. On the one hand she was a rebel, on the other hand she adapted; she was extremely gifted and at the same time consumed by self-doubt. And it was precisely this brokenness that fascinated me as an artist, which gave rise to the title "la passante entre les pôles", the wanderer between the poles, even between the worlds. For the picture I used acrylic paints, graphite, tissue paper and book pages from the book "I, Romy" from the book of Romy Schneider.
