

Ute Meyer: Picture "On the beach / five sanderlings" (2022)

€1,950.00

These shorebirds, the Sanderlings, observed Ute Meyer on a beach on the Shetland Islands. The picture was created after photographic notes in the studio. The large rugged stones in the background are streaked with dark brown, red and orange tones, offset with black. The colors of the sea shimmer in purple, blue, turquoise, light green and white. The dainty birds stride attentively along the swells in search of food. On the light sand in the foreground, large fragments of algae glow in orange and brown. The painting expresses both tranquility and movement. The canvas is hand-covered and primed four times. The picture suspension consists of a steel cable. The edges are painted. The picture can be hung without framing. The signature is in the front.
