

Ute Meyer: Picture "Rose arch I" (2014)

€1,600.00
