

Kirsten Treis: Picture "Sand wave wind 3" (2017)

€580.00

I have always enjoyed walking along the transition between the beach and the sea and observing how the water comes and goes, foam bubbles and flakes that are washed back and forth, seaweed, algae, stones, shells, structures that wind and waves have formed in the sand. In this series, I have been looking at the finds in the sand. There is no significant depth in the motifs, no bright colors, sometimes even few or many similar structures. So I decided on an experimental realization. I had a lot of fun at work and tried out quite a few things. Some of the works have lasted, others have disappeared again under new pictures. This one was allowed to stay. Flushing fringe painting. Did you spot the little algae? Signed and dated.
