

Kirsten Treis: Picture "House martins" (2023)

€500.00

Many years ago, we stayed at a small vacation park on the Baltic Sea several times. The cottages were located directly behind the dunes and cars were only allowed to drive on a few paved paths. Otherwise, the ground was left in its natural state. A large colony of house martins had gathered there. The aerial acrobats had their nests under the gables of the little houses and could often be seen flying towards a nest. The birds collected clay from the puddles to build their nests. An exciting and enjoyable natural spectacle. The idea for this picture lay dormant for many years before I realized it in 2023. House martins. Signed and dated.
