€1,600.00

Winter is here. A country lane with its brown winds its way through the powdery snow that has just fallen in the night. The adaptation weaves a tale of harmony and contrast that invites the viewer to pause and reflect. We find ourselves in a bold but balanced dance of wintry colors and textures. Some areas are constructed using a special spatula technique that has the chaneling effect of leather. Other areas are monochrome and allow the structure of the canvas to shine through. The white areas with their textured surface are reminiscent of the first snow of the year. With this canvas I would like to bring an atmosphere of calm and introspective beauty into your room.
