

Ralf Kunstmann: Picture "Reflection 02" (1996)

€10,000.00

The Porsche 911 is undoubtedly not just a dream for many men. In my work, it serves as a support for the actual motif - an Italian marketplace in Tuscany. It is literally a "painting of the moment", as photorealism is aptly described. Only for a fleeting moment is the figure reflected in the immaculately polished paint and appears several times in the reflection of the paint. This is not just about the depiction of a sports car icon, but about the overall situation. Of course, I have to admit that the projection surface of such an impressive sports car could hardly have been better. Perhaps a Ferrari? Who knows, maybe the opportunity will arise... As with my "Ape" motif, the surface of the painting is covered with numerous layers of acrylic paint, sanded and polished. The frame shows slight signs of wear from various exhibitions.
