

Heinz Stoewer: Picture "concealment" (2021)

€1,600.00

A purple cloth with folds conceals parts of a man's body, dominating the pictorial space with its colorfulness and contrasted by the salmon-orange background. Only the man's stomach and part of a thigh are visible. Although little of the body is visible, the veiling creates an erotic effect. What is going on here? Has the man quickly thrown on a scarf to cover himself or is there someone else in the room who could someone in the room who wants to pull the cloth away? Or is it the sight of someone sleeping? There are many possibilities for the viewer's imagination. The work is signed and dated on the back.
