

Heinz Stoewer: Picture "Desert creek" (2009)

€980.00

It is always a fascinating experience to come across an oasis and water while hiking in the desert. One such encounter inspired the artist to create this work when he spotted a stream in Andreas Canyon in the Californian desert. The picture shows a bird's eye view of the watercourse with its colorful stones and pebbles and the flowing movement of the precious water in this place. As an elementary prerequisite for life, water is both touching and calming. And this painting conveys this directly. The work is dated and signed on the back.
