

Heinz Stoewer: Picture "Manzanita" (2019)

€3,300.00

On his mountain hikes in California's San Jacinto Wilderness, the artist has repeatedly seen manzanita bushes, which are striking for their special branch structures and their reddish wood. Fascinated by these branch structures, they became the basis for this painting, which, however, completely deviates from a naturalistic representation in its color scheme. The other elements such as leaves and background are also creative inspiration and not real. The chosen main colors of light blue and purple give the painting its own, almost surreal mood, which nevertheless reflects the harmony of nature. The work is signed and dated on the reverse.
