

Bea Schubert: Picture "YES No.1 - inspired by Yoko Ono" (2019)

€1,450.00

Inspired by Yoko Ono. John Lennon met Yoko Ono in 1966 in a London gallery, where she was preparing an exhibition. Lennon marveled at Ono's work of sky art: a ladder leading up toward the sky, a pane of glass, and behind it in tiny letters: YES. Yoko Ono's message is positive - it stands for love and peace. This expressive diptych is 60 x 90 cm and 4cm deep. The sides are painted. Each canvas is 30 x 90 cm. Painted is the diptych on high quality canvas. It can be hung together but also separately. It has several layers of acrylic ink, acrylic paints, color spray and neon pastel chalk, which gives the artwork depth. The contrast between black and white tones with neon color is exciting. The panels have a delicate matte glaze to protect against UV light and dust.
