

Ute Meyer: Picture "Evening primrose by the pond" (2023)

€600.00

This watercolor was created on a stormy July day. Instead of painting outside in the garden, Ute Meyer decided to look out the window. The evening primroses already almost faded again, bending in the wind. A water lily shows itself and when the watercolor is finished, this flower has already closed again. The pond water shimmers in all shades of green and blue and is moved by the wind. The image carrier is 300gr handmade paper from Centenaire. The image is signed in front, bottom right. The picture is exclusively for sale at artSOLITAIRE.
