

Karin Döring: Picture "THE BIG SECRET OF SMALL HAPPINESS" (2023)

The great secret of small happiness lies in the fact that it is anchored in the seemingly inconspicuous moments of life. It is hidden in small pleasures that are often overlooked in everyday life. The feeling of a gentle breeze on the skin, the smile of another person or the feeling of satisfaction after an action. Happiness is not dependent on external circumstances, but an inner attitude, an ability to find joy in the little things. Just look around you: Happiness is everywhere. The woman in Karin Döring's artwork closes her eyes as if she is immersed in a world that only she seems to know. Her smile is so vivid that it is almost tangible. The HUMAN STRIPES technique adds a special dimension to the image, using subtle lines to capture the emotional nuances of bliss.
