Ute Meyer:
Picture "July garden" (2022)

This picture was taken in July on a sunny day in the evening hours. The shadows were already longer. The light and colors were intense. In the foreground are magenta coneflowers. Blue-violet bellflowers grow between them on the left side of the picture. The middle space of the picture is taken up by bright white daisies. Behind the daisies is a weathered tree trunk. Creamy white roses grow in the tree and shine against the dark green foliage. 300gr handmade paper from Centenaire served as the painting base. The picture is fixed on a gray passe-partout cardboard of size 60x80 cm. The signature is in front, bottom left.
