

Dagmar Jacobs: Picture "Blue portrait 3" (2000)

€1,400.00

This series of blue portraits are painted on very thin Japanese tissue paper. They can be processed in this way only by I initially the paper on glass completely soaked, so that it connects firmly with the glass. Then I give the blue color on it and then work with hairdryer paper towels and brush the portraits heraus. Expressive delicate soul images are created. In each of these works, I have to be very careful not to destroy the paper and yet have to work very quickly to play with the course of the color and use it to design. Series in this complex and delicate way of painting are created only at intervals of years. The portrait is fixed on cardboard
